Safety First!

Sun Safe!

The sun's two most harmful ultraviolet rays are:

- Ultraviolet B (UVB) rays cause sunburns and are the primary cause of skin cancers on parts of the body most exposed to the sun
- Ultraviolet A (UVA) rays go deeper into the skin and are always present – even on cloudy days
- When participating in outdoor water-related activities, reduce your exposure to the sun's harmful rays:
- Wear generous amounts of waterproof sunscreen (SPF 15 or 30), remembering to reapply frequently (see product for directions)
- Take special care near highly reflective areas like water or snow
- Stay in the shade during the most 'UV' dangerous times of the day, from 11am to 4pm.

Note: Babies under 6 months old should be kept completely out of direct sunlight.
